

About the Barefoot and Gardner Awards

The Gardner Institute publicly recognizes postsecondary institutions that have taken active steps to successfully mitigate student performance gaps. The award was created and named by friends and colleagues of Drs. Betsy O. Barefoot and John N. Gardner, the Gardner Institute's co-founders, to recognize and honor their deep commitment and dedication to postsecondary education that expands opportunities for all students.

Every two years, one two-year institution and one four-year institution in the United States will be selected as recipients of the Barefoot & Gardner Award. The award recognizes institutions that, at scale and with strong supporting evidence, demonstrate a deep commitment to expanding educational opportunity and achieving undergraduate success for all learners.

Applications for the award will be accepted until 11:59 p.m. Eastern on July 7, 2025. Please plan and submit accordingly.

Note: Applications must be submitted via the online form: Barefoot and Gardner Award Form
